

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An apparatus for use in an electrographic position sensing system comprises an antenna system and a signal strength detector. In one embodiment, the antenna system comprises two antennas. The detector measures the signal strength from each antenna. A 5 microprocessor contains an algorithm to calculate the position of the detector near the antennas.